Former Clark Trainer Is Killed In Alaska

WINCHESTER, Ky., June 29 (Special)—Pfc. Floyd Frodge, 38, Pine Grove, Clark county, was killed in a railroad accident June 8 at Fort Richardson, Alaska, according to a letter received here from the War Department.

The letter, addressed to Mr. Frodge's wife, Mrs. Iva Frodge, stated that his death was caused by a fractured skull suffered in a collision between a locomotive and a car on the Alaska railroad.

Mr. Frodge, a former employee of thoroughbred farms in central Kentucky as a race horse trainer, was inducted into the Army in September, 1942. He received basic training at Camp Claiborne, La., and was transferred to Alaska in April, 1944.

Besides his wife, Mr. Frodge is survived by his father, Ike Frodge, Manchester, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. William Reese, Maysville, and five brothers, Bryant Frodge, Manchester, Ohio; Henry and John Frodge, both of Maysville, Bennie Frodge, U. S. Army, and Lloyd Frodge, Dayton, Ohio.
