Battle Injuries Are Fatal To Sgt. D. R. McNabb

Infantryman Was Serving On French Front

Sgt. Donald Ray McNabb, 18, died July 1 of wounds received while serving in the French theatre of war, according to a War Department message to his uncle, George O. McNabb, Winchester.

Mr. McNabb received a War Department communication last week stating that his nephew had been seriously injured on July 1 and the latest message revealed that he died the same day.

Sgt. McNabb, a member of the United States infantry volunteered for service in the armed forces in May, 1943. He received training in Texas and was sent to England in February, 1944, and later was sent to France where he lost his life. He attended the Victory Heights school prior to entering the service.
